

Attorney Archie Sanders: A Lawyer with the Courtroom Spirit of Perry Mason and Johnnie Cochran

I met Attorney Archie Sanders in the hallway of the courthouse located at Third and Washington Ave., on a day I was looking for an Attorney to handle a case for me. I know now that it was Divine Providence when I met him. When he told me he was with The Cochran Firm, I immediately knew I wanted him to be my lawyer, but the question in my mind was I could afford him.

To date, he has handled and won several cases with judgments and monetary settlements in my favor. I remember Attorney Sanders advising me during a stressful moment during a case. He said. "Ms. Rogers, just let me present the facts, and we will win the case. Trust me." I wanted to get into the drama of my civil case, but I took his legal advice; and we won. One thing he has taught me to do is to get my contracts in writing before I provide PR services to potential clients.

His courtroom savvy and his professional presentation of the facts were a "Perry Mason, Johnnie Cochran defining moment. I was amazed at how he had taken control of the courtroom and navigated through the trial with ease and confidence. Attorney Sanders is a Yale University scholar - a very intelligent, well-versed lawyer.

I have been referring him to family and friends since the day I met him; but now that he has established the Sanders Law Firm, I am officially marketing and advertising his law firm.

Patricia A. Rogers
CEO/President
Patricia A. Rogers Public Relations